

Industry is the backbone of the Slovakian economy and there are clear signs of an economic upswing at present. In 2018, production in the manufacturing industry increased by 6.6%. This also means an increasing demand for modern laser technology.

Messe Stuttgart and the German-Slovakian Chamber of Industry and Commerce are therefore jointly organising for the second time a trade conference with accompanying exhibition.

The event focuses on laser applications for the automotive and supplier industry, which, with an increase in production of over 20%, outstrips all other sectors in Slovakia.

The event will bring together providers of laser production systems, laser-specific machine sub-systems, components, processes, and users from industry. Thanks to its bilateral and crosssector character, this event will provide an ideal platform for networking.
